Leading Through Conflict and Change

A one-day advanced training workshop sponsored by and supporting Leadership Kitsap Foundation

Tuesday, February 28, 2012

Many of our most significant leadership challenges show up in the context of change and conflict. A common characteristic of effective leaders is that of "vision". This vision often involves individuals and teams changing so as to achieve some degree of improvement. At the same time we know that individuals and organizations often exhibit significant resistance to change. This seminar will explore the role of leaders in helping individuals and groups to successfully navigate these challenges.

Workshop Objectives:

What assumptions do we have about leadership?

What must I understand about change and transition if I am to be effective as a leader?

What roles do leaders play in facilitating the effective engagement of conflict?

Participants: This workshop is appropriate for anyone who wants to increase their capacity both personally and professionally to effectively engage change and conflict.

Presenter: Greg Abell

Greg Abell is a dynamic trainer and a senior partner with Sound Options Group in Washington State. He has served as a founding member and Board President of the Kitsap County Dispute Resolution Center, President of the Washington Mediation Association, and senior consultant to the Consortium for Appropriate Dispute Resolution in Special Education (CADRE). Greg currently serves as an advisor for the Leadership Kitsap Foundation. As a professional mediator, Greg has experience mediating highly contentious, multi-party community and institutional disputes. His practice as a conflict resolution professional is driven by a core belief that everything of importance happens within the context of interpersonal relationships.
